The story of Laika, the first dog in space, had a tragic end. Laika was a 3-year-old stray dog. She was wandering the streets of Moscow when she was picked up and taken to a secret Soviet space laboratory. Scientists put Laika and two other stray dogs named Albina and Muska through many hard tests and training for the space flight. In the end, they chose Laika. Laika was launched in a cabin aboard Sputnik 2 on November 3, 1957. Scientists had put enough food and water for just 10 days because they knew Laika would not come back alive. In the first two hours after take off, Laika was acting normally and eating her food, but she died about five hours after take off. She had died of extreme heat, fear and panic. On 4 April 1958, Laika's cabin burned up in the atmosphere.

29. It is clear from the passage that Laika ---.

- A) was sent into space together with two other dogs
- B) was chosen because she was a very young dog
- C) had died a few hours before take off
- D) had stopped eating during the tests and training
- E) could not survive the harsh conditions of the space flight

30. According to the passage, Laika died because ---.

- A) her cabin was too cold for a dog
- B) she could not breathe in her cabin
- C) she was not given enough food or water in the first five hours
- D) she was terrified and it was too hot in the cabin
- E) her cabin burned up and disappeared in the Earth's atmosphere

31. The passage mainly presents the ---.

- A) role of animals in space missions
- B) sad story of the first dog in space
- C) cruel treatment of stray dogs
- D) difficulty of being in a space flight
- E) dangers of space flights

32. – 34. soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Baseball became a popular game in the US in the 1860s. In those years, the players did not wear gloves, as the ball was softer than the modern one. Today, gloves are part of the baseball uniform. Yet, they don't have a standard design or colour; players can choose their own gloves. When baseball gloves were first made in the late 1800s, they were not used very much and players who wore a glove were often laughed at. The first baseball player who wore a glove in 1870 was catcher Doug Allison. His hands were injured and cracked open from catching the ball, so he decided to wear a glove to protect his hands. His teammates made fun of him because of that. Five years later, in 1875, Charlie Waitt also wore a glove for protection. When the great baseball star Albert Spalding began using gloves in 1877, more and more baseball players did so, too. And after that, baseball gloves were commonly used.

32. From the passage, we understand that the baseball glove ---.

- A) must be the same colour as the team's uniform
- B) is not allowed in some games today
- C) was first worn as a decorative item
- D) was used in the early days of baseball
- E) is necessary for protection

33. The passage suggests that ---.

- A) the modern baseball is harder than the ball of the 1860s
- B) baseball gloves were very fashionable in the early 1800s
- C) teammates made fun of Albert Spalding when he wore a glove for the first time
- D) baseball players still laugh at those who wear gloves during games
- E) the first baseball gloves looked very funny, so players did not want to wear them

34. The purpose of the passage is to present ---.

- A) the history of the game of baseball
- B) a description of the baseball uniform
- C) the history of the baseball glove
- D) the famous players in the history of baseball
- E) a description of the baseball glove

35. – 37. soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

I took a bus from Paris to the Centre region of France and arrived there early in the morning. The people in the streets were smiling and greeting one another, saying "Bonjour". I was surprised because this doesn't happen on the busy streets of New York. After checking in a hotel, I took a sightseeing tour. The city was beautiful with grassland and the river. It was full of old buildings and castles. The next day, I wanted to do something different, so I visited the famous ZooParc de Beauval. It had many rare animals such as pandas, tigers and lions. I saw the koala bears for the first time in my life: they were adorable! I ate dinner at a restaurant that served traditional French food. The menu was in French, and the only thing I could understand on it was a cheeseburger, so I just ate that. The cheeseburger was not a disappointment because it tasted perfect. That night I got on the train for Venice, Italy.

35. One can understand from the passage that the writer of the passage ---.

- A) doesn't enjoy sightseeing
- B) does not like animals
- C) did not like the French cheeseburger
- D) spent his first day in Centre sightseeing
- E) knows French very well

36. Which of the following sentences is not true about the writer of the passage? ---

- A) He had never seen a koala bear before he visited the famous ZooParc de Beauval.
- B) After his visit to the Centre region, he set out for Italy.
- C) He stayed in the Centre region for two days.
- D) He had been to Paris before coming to the Centre region.
- E) He is an Italian tourist visiting France.

37. The writer of the passage had just a cheeseburger because ---.

- A) he did not know the dishes on the menu
- B) he does not like French food
- C) the restaurant he went was an American fast-food restaurant
- D) the restaurant didn't serve anything else
- E) it is his favourite food

Bushbaby is one of the cutest animals on Earth. Bushbabies are close relatives of monkeys, apes and lemurs. They live in the trees of African rainforests, and their nests are made of leaves. Their name comes from their cries, which resemble those of a human baby. These are tiny animals, about 13- 40 cm long and weigh less than half a kilo. They are so fast and have such sharp eyes that they can catch flying insects even at night. They have a strange, clumsy way of walking, so it is easier for them to jump vertically and from tree to tree. They usually hang and swing from branches. In fact, they have amazing jumping abilities; their lower legs enable them to jump up to 2 metres in the air. They feed on insects, fruit and leaves. They also eat gum because they can easily remove tree barks with their sharp front teeth.

38. Which of the following sentences about bushbabies is not true according to the passage?

- A) They sound like crying babies.
- B) They have no connection with apes but lemurs.
- C) They are very active and fast.
- D) They can jump up and down very easily.
- E) Their front teeth are strong and sharp.

39. We can infer from the passage that bushbabies ---.

- A) have strong and elastic legs
- B) rarely build nests in trees
- C) cannot see very well in the dark
- D) sleep all night long without moving
- E) look like human babies

40. This passage introduces the bushbaby and focuses on their ---.

- A) similarities to monkeys
- B) social habits
- C) intelligence
- D) physical abilities
- E) communication skills

41. – 43. soruları, aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

The idiom “beat around the bush” means “to avoid saying an important or embarrassing thing by talking about other things”. This idiom has its origins in the hunting days of medieval times. In those days, hunting was a popular sport for the English lords and noblemen. When they went to the bushes to hunt rabbits, squirrels, foxes or ducks, they hired young men to force animals out from their hiding places. This was done by shouting very loudly, and also by hitting or beating the bushes and trees with sticks. The animals that came out were then made to run in the direction of the waiting noblemen. Thus, they became easier targets. The technique also made hunting safer for the noblemen because sometimes dangerous animals like pigs and boars could come out of the bushes and attack them.

41. We learn from the passage that beating around the bush ---.

- A) was an old hunting technique
- B) frightened the boars and pigs and made them run away from the hunters
- C) worked only with small animals like squirrels, rabbits and birds
- D) was done by the noble hunters themselves
- E) did not make big or dangerous animals come out of the bushes

42. According to the passage, beating the bushes and trees during hunting ---.

- A) made animals go towards the noblemen's homes
- B) protected squirrels and rabbits from the hunters
- C) made some animals escape from the hunters
- D) saved little birds from being killed
- E) made animals come out and run towards the hunters

43. The purpose of the writer in writing this passage is to ---.

- A) describe hunting in medieval England
- B) describe the hobbies of medieval nobility
- C) give the origins of an English idiom
- D) present the dangers of hunting in the bushes
- E) present some of the animals that were commonly hunted in the medieval times
